

Henley Success in European Thesis Competition

The result of the EDAMBA Thesis Competition, open to all EDAMBA member institutions, has been announced. EDAMBA is the European Doctoral Association in Management and Business Administration representing many major European business schools.

Dr Staffan Canbäck has been awarded first prize, by quite a high margin, with his Henley DBA thesis: "Bureaucratic Limits of Firm Size: Empirical Analysis Using Transaction Cost Economics".

This thesis was reviewed by a panel drawn from experts in their disciplines from a range of European Business Schools and was considered along with a number of other doctoral theses submitted for the competition from all over Europe, each recommended by EDAMBA member institutions. These included, for example, ESADE, Spain, Vienna University and Gothenburg University. Many of the theses in the competition were PhDs.
